

Interface

- * it is a behavioural pattern that centralizes complex communications and control logic between objects in a system, allowing them to interact indirectly through a mediator, instead of directly with each other.
- Mediator Interface: defines how components communicate
  - Concrete Mediator: implements communication and coordinates interaction b/w components.
  - Colleagues (components): communicate with each other through mediator.